CONFERENCE 2016

NOHANZ invites members, friends and colleagues to its 2016 Oral History conference in Ōtautahi/Christchurch, timed to coincide with the city's Heritage Week.

Thirty years ago a group of committed historians formed the National Oral History Association of New Zealand. Three of those founders – Hugo Manson, Claudia Orange and Jock Phillips – will present keynote addresses that look back on our history and consider our future.

We consider ways in which such life histories are shared and disseminated – through books, films and in digital form.

We will also acknowledge the experiences of those Christchurch residents affected by the earthquakes of 2011 and 2012, recorded in a number of oral history projects.
